I N T R O D U C T I O N

ONCE upon a time, so the story goes, there was a rich nobleman who traveled far and wide in order that he might enjoy the comforts of the inns he visited and sample the splendid food and wines which graced their tables. It is related that in his search for excellent fare and comfortable lodgings, he sent one of his servants on ahead to test the amenities of those places which might be worthy of a visit.

It was agreed that the servant would leave a sign on the doorpost of the inn, by which the master would know whether to turn aside in order to sample its wares and to take his ease. If the quality of these were above ordinary, the symbol to be written on the doorpost was the word "Est."

Should the servant discover the wines and foods to be of unusual excellence, he was to repeat the symbol twice, "Est. Est." One day, having come far by a road so untraveled that he might easily have missed his way, the man came upon a quaint and charming inn, deep by the roadside, and upon approaching closer, observed that his servant had written upon the doorpost "Est. Est. Est." So enamoured of the place did the master become that he lingered on and on. In fact, his journey was ended, for here he sojourned the rest of his days, deep in the conviction that it represented the "ne plus ultra" of his years of search.

Companion to "Adventures in Good Eating."

In "Adventures in Good Eating" many motor car pilgrims have found a reliable servant who has gone ahead, as it were, and posted the places where pleasant and satisfying meals are to be had. This companion volume, "Lodging for a Night," has been prepared in response to an encouraging and insistent demand from those who have found "Adventures" so useful. It is hoped that one will become the complement of the other, for there is a natural and logical sequence between eating and sleeping. Regardless of the sequence, however, certain it is that good meals and comfortable lodgings en route add immeasurably to the enjoyment of a trip.

No advertising accepted.

It is my firm purpose to follow the same scrupulous policy as to the material included in "Lodging for a Night" that I have pursued in the selection of places for listing in "Adventures." No place listed has paid one cent directly or indirectly to secure mention in this book and there is no space for sale. You paid for unprejudiced, reliable information when you purchased this book and your money is the only revenue to which I am entitled.

It is my hope that your support and co-operation will make this companion volume eventually self-supporting. With this I will be content, for the labor of gathering and editing this material has of itself been fascinating, and the host of interesting friends I have made has been no little reward for me.

I shall consider it a great favor if you will write me (in detail) about any place listed in this book, which in your opinion definitely should not be included in future printings.

What makes for comfortable lodging.

What points should we consider in deciding what places shall qualify for listing in "Lodging for a Night"? In my opinion the following are all important:

- (a) Cleanliness throughout—not only clean linen but clean bedding also.
- (b) Quietness—freedom from traffic and other noises as well as disturbing movements or conversations of other guests.
- (c) Comfortable beds—science has made remarkable advance in the design of mattresses within recent years and there is nothing so conducive to restful sleep as a bed equipped with comfortable springs and mattress.
- (d) Courteous, adequate and unobtrusive service. Most of us like to have our wants anticipated. While we insist upon service that is adequate and readily available, we do not wish to be overwhelmed with it. Neither do we desire to be reminded constantly of the service being rendered—the more unobtrusive it is, the more it is appreciated.
- (e) Hospitality is that quality of homelikeness that makes our sojourn pleasant and inspires in us the desire to return again. Whether our host is manager of a swanky thousand-room property or the keeper of a modest inn, upon his genius (and I say genius for it requires no ordinary ability to dispense hospitality impartially to all guests) and cordial personality depends the atmosphere of friendliness which prevails.

It has always seemed to me that a peculiar responsibility attaches to the functions of an innkeeper. He is expected to radiate a spirit of welcome to those who seek the shelter of his caravansary; he must be ever solicitous of the comfort of his guests; he must evidence such charity toward those he takes in that he is often "taken in" himself by reason of his own benevolence; he must be a diplomat in even his most casual dealings with those who sit before his hearthstone; he is charged with the safety of all who tarry under the protection of his roof; he must provide so agreeably for the enjoyment of all who sign his register that they will leave reluctantly and will long to return again; and withal, he must exact a modest tribute substantial enough to yield a profit if he is to stay in business.

Where is that innkeeper, you say?

Of course the ideal innkeeper is even harder to find than the much maligned honest lawyer. But I know the manager of one of the largest and most famous hotels in America's largest city where every member of the staff reflects the fine tradition of the innkeeper's profession. And I know the operators of a score or more quaint and quiet country inns where the host takes personal pride in looking after the welfare of his guests.

The keeper of the inn is not an extinct species by any means, but the fact remains that, as in the business of feeding people, a distressingly large proportion of those who offer shelter to the weary pilgrim for a night, lack any adequate conception of their job, even if they are not actually incompetent.

Types of accommodations—Hotels.

Of the three types of accommodations which I have chosen for listing in this book, hotels seem to have the preference. I believe that habit is in large part responsible for this, as well as the fact that a first-class hotel carries an established reputation and offers certain recognized conveniences.

But it is my opinion that hotel management has shown a definite lack of ability to co-ordinate its facilities with the requirements of modern motor car travel. I feel sure that the hotels could easily increase their business if they would give consideration to the following problems:

- (a) Allow time and space at or near the entrance for the unhurried unloading of cars belonging to guests. There is altogether too much space occupied by taxis and local cars and if unloading does not proceed rapidly enough to suit them, they evidence their annoyance by noisily honking their horns.
- (b) Work out the garage problem so that someone would accept responsibility for safety of articles left in a car, as well as damage to the car itself while in their charge. My new car (with less than a thousand miles on it) was delivered recently to me at my hotel, with a deep scar the length of the body where it had scraped against some projecting surface. Yet no one knew how it had happened. It is almost naive the way hotel management disclaims responsibility.
- (c) Stop admiring their Louis XIV lounges and provide a couple of reception rooms near the entrance where guests who have been riding all day may drop their bags, rearrange their clothing, and have the clerk come to them to register. Then with accommodations assigned, they can slip into an adjacent elevator and be conducted to their rooms.

Motorists who have come several hundred miles covered with the dust of travel and fatigued, do not like to parade through a "Peacock Alley" with local satellites gazing at them over their lorgnettes and pince nez as much as to say, "Did God make you, too?"

- (d) Think of something they can do to make their hotel remembered well and favorably. An evening (not morning) paper (when the guest has time to scan it and it is the more appreciated); perhaps a small vase of fresh flowers or a bowl of fruit for which the locality may be famous. Provide current information in the room as to events, places of special interest to see, where the leading movie houses are (giving specific directions how to get there from the hotel) and what pictures are being shown. (Good examples: the information placed in each guest room by the Fryemont Inn at Bryson City, North Carolina, the Lee Hoffman Hotel, Cresson, Pa., or the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.)
- (e) Put at least two comfortable chairs in a six-dollar room. Only progressive action by hotel management along these or similar lines can change the trend away from hotel accommodations on the part of the discriminating motoring public.

Auto Courts—an expanding development.

The newest development in lodging facilities, and one addressed particularly to those who travel by auto, is the type of accommodation which has come to be designated as an auto court. The modern auto court of unified design is not to be confused with the scattered and heterogeneous growth of cabins of every type and description. The single detached cabin, even though containing elementary conveniences of the Chick Sales type, represents at best but a primitive effort to meet the modern needs of the discriminating motorist.

The modern auto court, too, has its own peculiar advantages over many hotels. When under competent management, it offers the motorist the maximum convenience in pleasant and comfortable lodging accommodations.

In common with the hotel, the well-operated auto court possesses—

- (a) a clean, inviting atmosphere.
- (b) restful beds equipped with comfortable mattresses and supplied with clean bedding as well as clean linen.
- (c) full lavatory and bathroom facilities including plenty of hot water—plus the following advantages not often found in even the newest hotels—
- (d) opportunity to retire immediately to lodgings without being subjected to the scrutiny of lobby loafers.
- (e) convenient parking or individual garage immediately adjacent to your lodging—necessary to unload only the personal belongings that you are going to need—your car ready to go when you are.
- (f) quiet location away from traffic and city noises.
- (g) usually cool and comfortable by reason of cross ventilation—a real advantage in sultry weather.
- (h) no occasion for tipping—and more often than not the prices are more reasonable than the hotel rates.

On the other hand, there is a reluctance on the part of many gasoline pilgrims to patronize even the modern auto court, which is easy to understand because this type of accommodation, especially east of the Mississippi River, is so new that many of even the better courts lack the reputation of a first-class hotel and the guarantee of good management which a reputable hotel possesses.

Until the reputable operators of auto courts organize to guarantee their guests the same security and protection that the leading hotels afford, they will not be rewarded with the enthusiastic patronage they may otherwise expect.

In order to attract those to whom this modern type of lodging accommodation might rightfully be expected to appeal and who, at the same time, are willing and able to pay, the operators of auto courts must adopt a code of ethics identical with that prevailing in any first-class hotel. (A majority of course do so.)

(b) Guests shall register in the regular way and remain all night.

(c) Drinking on the premises shall not be permitted and questionable trade refused.

Guest Houses—something different.

There are, throughout the country, many lovely homes owned by people of culture and refinement who have felt the impress of the difficult economic conditions which have surged back and forth like waves over the country during the past ten years. Where the home has been built with a number of extra bedrooms and the arrangement is such that guests can be accommodated comfortably, some of these owners have been willing to open their homes to a limited number of discerning and discriminating travelers.

The development seems to have originated in rural England where a number of the landed gentry, finding themselves in reduced circumstances after the war, discovered that they could accept a few "paying guests" to their mutual advantage. In our country this type of accommodation has come to be designated as a guest house.

Most of these people who open their homes as overnight guest houses accept their obligation as host or hostess with the same responsibility that an innkeeper assumes. They are usually intelligent, substantial people, often with an obvious background of true culture and refinement. Naturally they rarely over-advertise the accommodations they have available, preferring to depend upon friends and neighbors to pass the word along. Pride of family and ownership prevents them from opening their doors wide to an unfeeling and unresponsive public.

The location of an overnight guest house is of extreme importance. Preferably, they should be situated adjacent to, rather than directly on, a heavily traveled highway. A location on the edge of a village or town is an advantage rather than where city noises are heard. It is all the more desirable if the guest house is set amid expansive grounds where ample parking facilities are available.

It should be remembered that an overnight guest house does not surrender all the rights of a private dwelling because it receives paying guests. For this reason, to bring liquor into the house without the host's permission is to violate his hospitality.

The average "tourist home" has little to commend it as a pleasing place to spend the night, primarily because of this very lack of convenience. Neither does a boarding house qualify in the facilities that one expects to find in an overnight guest house.

You should not judge a place by the length of its description in "Lodging for a Night." If no comment is made, it is usually because detailed information did not reach me in time.

Photographs are included merely to add physical interest to the book. They do not signify that the place illustrated is better than some other.

Space and the expense involved do not permit including a large number of photographs.

An annual edition contemplated.

It is expected that it will be necessary to publish annual editions of "Lodging for a Night" in order to insure that the information contained is timely and complete. Although I have endeavored to ascertain the latest information with regard to rates of each type of place mentioned, I cannot guarantee its accuracy, for rates are subject to change without notice. The rates shown in almost every case are for two people, and the places listed are generally open all year unless otherwise stated.

Not a complete list.

In no sense is this book offered as a complete list of those places possessing superior lodging accommodations of such standard as to deserve listing.

Therefore, in certain well-traveled sections where there are a number of places offering excellent accommodations of the same type, it is my plan to show but one or two popular lodging places of each class. Tastes differ somewhat, even among the discriminating, so that while some insist on the utmost in de luxe accommodations, many others prefer their comforts in simple style, yet with cleanliness and convenience unquestioned. It is hoped that your interest and enthusiasm in this quest for the more desirable places to lodge will assist in making this book more representative and complete. Many places, particularly auto courts and guest houses, failed to furnish complete information or responded too late for publication.

You can make this a better directory.

Your comments on the places listed which you visit will be appreciated. If any of the places do not measure up to your expectations, it will be mutually helpful if you will tell me in detail in what respect they failed. On the other hand, if you find the accommodations outstanding, your endorsement will serve to further establish their merit. The information you give me will not be divulged to others.

Finally, a word of appreciation to those friends who have co-operated in the preparation of the first, second and third editions. The suggestions and the recommendations of places they have already sent me have been very helpful.

I hope that "Lodging for a Night" will direct you to the most desirable places to spend a restful night and thereby add immeasurably to the pleasure of your trip. I am confident that if it saves you one error in judgment in the selection of a place to sleep, it will have repaid you for your investment.

The sale of this directory depends upon word of mouth, friend to friend, advertising. There are not sufficient returns to justify a general announcement of the book through paid advertising. It has been interesting to see how many friends of "Adventures in Good Eating" have accepted "Lodgings" on the reputation of its sire and having observed its own good points, have enthusiastically told their friends about it.

In addition, "Lodgings" has made many new friends strictly on its own merits. To all these friends, I am sure "Lodgings" will commend itself as a gratifying gift for holidays, birthdays, anniversaries, vacationists, travelers, as well as for bridge and contest prizes, etc.

"Lodging for a Night" is sold by leading bookstores, gift shops, etc., and by many of the places listed, or it will be sent (anywhere in the United States) upon receipt of a money order or check for $1.50 (no stamps please). A gift card will be enclosed if requested.

Rates quoted are those given me by the hotels, inns, guest houses, etc. and are NOT guaranteed. I regret to say that in some cases patrons have found higher rates quoted them. I shall consider it a favor if my readers will let me know of such charges GIVING FULL PARTICULARS.

IF this directory is the means of pointing out places where you may spend the night and the accommodations and services are satisfactory, it will be appreciated by the management of such places, as well as by myself, if you will say to the host or hostess that you came by reason of their being included in this book. This will greatly aid in gaining a wider distribution of the book through its sale by a majority of the places listed. Not only does this insure a profit to them but also it will provide a sufficient sale to the public so that the cost of publication will be met.

PLEASE NOTE

A number of places, though not listed in my books, have put out signs to indicate that they are approved and recommended by me.

I urge you to look in the current edition of "Lodging for a Night" to ascertain if they are listed therein before patronizing them.

It is understood where pets are permitted that this means small ones only, that they are house-trained, that they will not annoy guests and that the owners will be responsible for any damage done by the pets. Also that in no cases are pets allowed in dining rooms.

This year you will find opposite each town and city listed in the United States map co-ordinates, such as Shell D-6. These co-ordinates refer to the state maps which the different oil companies issue. These maps may be obtained easily at the nearest service station. As far as possible, I have tried to designate maps of companies having large distribution in the states mentioned, as Conoco, Shell, Socony, Texaco, and others.

I believe this feature will be of great value in helping you find quickly the location of various places. I shall welcome comments which will guide me as to whether or not I continue the idea in future editions.

PLEASE DO NOT ASK FOR ADVERTISING RATES

in my books. For obvious reasons, I cannot accept any commercial advertising,

WARNING TO PLACES LISTED

It is a distinct disappointment to me to learn that a surprising number of people have gone to listed places and received free meals and lodging because they have claimed to be relatives of mine traveling through the country to check on places, or that they were responsible for the place being included in my book.

Please remember I have authorized no one to make such demands and they should be refused.

Monterey Peninsula

The best way to enjoy the charm of Monterey Peninsula with its fascinating blend of romance, history and natural beauty is to take the famous Seventeen Mile Drive. If it's a sunny day you'll understand afterwards why tourists leave reluctantly and why so many come back to live here. On this drive, which follows the irregular outline of the peninsula, you'll see swanky Del Monte hotel . . . the waterfront of Monterey with picturesque old Fishermen's Wharf and its colorful fleet of sardine boats . . . many old adobes dating from colonial times when Monterey was the first capital of California . . . marvelous views of the blue bay with its crescent shore and the Santa Cruz mountains . . . historic landmarks, including many of California's famous "firsts"—Colton Hall, where the first state constitution was drafted; First Theatre, still used for hilariously given plays by the modern Troupers of the Gold Coast; first Custom House, and others. You'll catch glimpses of enchanting gardens as beautiful as when the Spanish grandees lived their romantic, lavishly hospitable lives; and perhaps you'll remember the lacy shadow of trailing pepper tree fronds against sunny old adobe walls long after you've forgotten Monterey's historic data. . . . You'll see neat little Pacific Grove, the town where John Steinbeck wrote "Tortilla Flat." . . . You'll have to pay four bits to get through the toll gate into exclusive Pebble Beach, but it's worth it to see the world-famous Monterey cypress, wind-blown into weird shapes . . . Bird Rock . . . Seal Rock and its colony of playful sea lions . . . much-photographed Midway Point . . . the costly marble palace of the Crocker family . . . Del Monte Lodge where movie stars vacation. . . . You'll come to Carmel, called the "paradise for writers and artists," where you'll get glimpses of charming little homes half hidden among the trees . . . streets without sidewalks . . . a mile-long beach of the whitest sand in the world . . . the house where Lincoln Steffens lived . . . and down close to the sea in a rock house with a tower built by his own hands the home of America's foremost poet, Robinson Jeffers. . . . You'll see Carmel's business district with trees in the middle of a steep main street at the foot of which the ocean rises in a blue wall; where tourists are delighted by shops as varied and self-consciously quaint as ingenious architects can make them. . . . If you could stay long enough, you'd find that an unusually cultured, mentally alert class of visitors and residents is drawn here by the flourishing little theatre group, a community art gallery and the annual Bach Festival, as well as by the lure of Carmel's exquisite natural beauty. . . . South of Carmel you'll find the old Carmel Mission, second of the many started by Father Serra, whose bones rest in a sculptured sarcophagus visited every year by thousands of the faithful.

PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA.

Among my readers I may have some adventurous souls who desire the trip of their lives. For them, I would suggest the Cariboo Hwy., running from Vancouver to Prince George and Hazelton, a distance of 800 miles, and having some of the finest scenery in the world. You will find no paved roads but good gravel ones. Comfortable stopping places all along the road. Space does not permit my listing these in this edition. If, however, those desiring to take this trip will write me, I will be very glad to send them full information.

CANAL ZONE

A tip from a friend down at Balboa, which is not bad advice at all.

"To get located in a place in Latin America, if you don't know, inquire carefully as to the 'best hotel in the place where all the American tourists go.' Make a careful note of it, and keep away from that place; it's probably a sucker trap. Then inquire as to the next best place, in case the 'good hotel' is all filled up. That is the place to go. There might be a couple of Number 2 places—find out."

The "South American Handbook" is the "Bible" of the informed Latin American traveler. Published annually and costs $1.00.

Get water you know is good or boil the bad water. There is nothing sure about magic pills dropped into impure drinking water.

Notes regarding Florida: Practically all of the rates quoted are for winter accommodations. Those that are open in the winter only are so noted. If no dates are given, such hotels are open all year, many of them with astonishingly low rates in the summer. Places like Palm Beach and Miami Beach have accommodations at all prices, but one must not expect low or even medium rates from December to March.

MEXICO

LAND OF ROMANCE, BEAUTIFUL SCENERY, PLEASANT PEOPLE, ALLURING DAYS OF PLEASURE AND RELAXATION. . . .

The following information, gathered during my December, 1939, visit is the personal opinion and observation of the writer who alone assumes responsibility but assures the reader all recommendations are without favor and for your best observance.

MOTORING TO MEXICO CITY:

PAN AMERICAN HIGHWAY, 760 miles, all paved, in excellent condition. Your port of entry is from Laredo, Texas.

Before you leave home be certain to secure Certificate of Ownership for your automobile, carry it with you, as it must be produced when getting Automobile Permit. Carry American Express Traveler Checks, as they are the best known and are more easily cashed, especially in the smaller towns in case of need.

Plan to arrive in Laredo during the afternoon or evening. Next morning visit the A.M.A. (Asociacion Mexicana Automovilistica) office around the corner from the Hotel Hamilton, where you will find a well-trained staff who will attend to all your entry needs, as follows: A tourist card for each person, an Automobile Permit, and I urgently advise COMPLETE AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE for each day of your planned stay in Mexico. Rates are from 50c per day for small cars to $1.50 for the larger and expensive makes and will save you much annoyance in case of accident or car trouble. Change $10.00 for each person into Mexican currency.

Leave Laredo not later than noon. At the Mexican Customs, across Laredo Bridge, you must unload all baggage for inspection, after which all bags are sealed or marked and should not be defaced or broken as there are two inspection stations between Laredo and Monterrey where you must show your papers and if asked allow second inspection of seals and marks. PLEASE REMEMBER, you are now in Mexico, another man's country, where customs may be strange to you but perfectly proper to the natives. You will always find English speaking people in all the Highway Towns and during all my visits, NEVER, has there been a time when I was not treated with greatest consideration and courtesy, and in case of trouble a helping hand was always ready. In spite of many stories, lately printed, gasoline filling station employees were always on the job, my tires checked, windshield wiped, and oil and water markers looked at, and many of the stations are new and modern. We now leave Laredo and following Marker Mexico 1, start for Monterrey 146 miles ahead. You will love this country and enjoy every minute of your visit. The following towns and places of lodging are listed in proper order as you go toward Mexico City.

BE CONSIDERATE BE PATIENT DRIVE CAREFULLY

Hotel and Court rates are not given. Two persons in most courts will be from 6.00 pesos. In Highway Hotels 8.00 pesos, while the average cost for twin beds in the average hotel will be from 12.00 to 15.00 pesos. Ask their rates when you register.

1 kilometer is 0.62 of a mile.

17 kilometers is about 10½ miles.

1 liter is 0.26 of a gallon.

1 gallon is 3.79 liters.

To convert kilometers into miles, divide by two and add 25%
Thus, 40 kilometers would be 20 plus 5, or 25 miles.

SABINAS HIDALGO. 83 Mi.

Small town, where you will find Powers Cafe, Cabins and Curio store. Excellent food.

MONTERREY. 63 Mi. Total 146.

Second or third largest city. Many industries. Well maintained streets.

Three good hotels: Colonial, 34 rooms with 45 building. Monterrey, largest and new. Ancira, old and mellow, with charm unspoiled by modern conveniences.

At the Colonial, under the excellent management of Tony Malo, you will receive every consideration and attention and should be most comfortable.

Regina Courts. 40 units right side of highway as you enter the town. All rooms have tub or shower.

La Silla Courts. 60 units, some with kitchenettes. The newest and most up-to-date, with pleasing architecture. About one mile after passing through town and crossing river.

LINARES. 81 Mi. Total 227.

Canada Courts. 10 units. Operated by Colin and Mrs. Hardwicke. New in 1938. Comfortable rooms. Just off highway almost through town.

VICTORIA. 97 Mi. Total 324.

Hotel: Sierra Gorda. 90 rms. 25 ACool. Cafe, gar., elevator. Opened 1939 and you will find the best of hotel service under the able direction of Enrique Benitez. French and American food.

Victoria Courts. Right side of road as you enter town. 20 units, tub or shower.

EL MANTE (Villa Juarez). 35 Mi. Total 409.

Small town in center of heavy sugar cane country. Hotel Mante will offer modern rms. WB. Has plain but clean cafe.

MEXICO

VALLES. 61.6 Mi. Total 470.6.

Hotel: Casa Grande. 70 rms. WB. A modern hotel, all rms. outside built around a large inside patio or court. Gar. for cars. DR. Ask for Tomas Osuna. Ford Agency and service station in new, modern buildings just across the highway. You should be pleased with all they have to offer.

Hotel: Valles. 50 rms., tiled baths. DR. Period furniture, good bds.

Palmas and Erick's Courts offer less expensive quarters for those who wish them. Clean and comfortable.

TAMAZUNCHALE, (Tomas and Chale). 67.7 Mi. Total 538.3.

A town you will want to linger in. Sunday is market day, when mountain Indians come in to trade and visit—many interesting types.

D. Z. Courts. Under Mr. and Mrs. D. Zelinsky. Offer ten modern cottages, set in tropical garden. Best of food and an atmosphere of home comfort. Try a D. Z. Special drink. Drive through Main St. about $\frac{3}{4}$ of a mile, stop at gate, honk horn. I like the Zelinsky's. So will you.

Rogers, Sol, and Pemex Courts also offer overnight cottages with moderate rates.

From here, next morning, you start up into the beautiful mountain country. Ask about fog conditions. Allow not less than seven hours for drive to Mexico City. Next one hundred miles have stretches with many curves. All turns are well banked and have guard rails or walls in most places.

DRIVE CAREFULLY

TAKE TURNS SLOWLY

ENJOY THIS PART OF YOUR TRIP

JACALA. 59.9 Mi. Total 598.

Small mountain town. Tom Simpson Courts. Jose Tamborrel has American Cafe. Good coffee.

ZIMAPAM. 42 Mi.. Total 640.

TASQUILLO. 22.6 Mi. Total 662.8.

Two small mountain towns. Gas and oil.

IXMIQUILPAN. 11.7 Mi. Total 674.5.

Highway misses town proper, which is one of the oldest in this section and is highly interesting. Mr. H. R. Dobbs has a truly modern service station, cafe and fine store with large stock of local made baskets and general Mexican made goods. Good food is served. Stop, get out, and stretch. Meet Mr. Dobbs, say hello for me. Only 100 Mi. left to Mexico City. General open, rolling country with but one grade.

ENTERING MEXICO CITY.

A new, divided, four-lane highway has just been opened to within a mile of City Center. If this is your first visit, get a guide at Police Station who will for a small sum take you quickly and directly to your selected hotel and save you much worry and confusion. DO NOT CHANGE YOUR HOTEL SELECTION UNTIL YOU HAVE LOOKED AT THE ROOMS.

MEXICO CITY. 99 Mi. Total 764.

Price range of hotel rms. will vary with class of hotel selected. There are 20 Class A hotels, 6 Class AA, and 15 or more Class B, which means here, small, clean, and less expensive.

Hotel: Reforma. The city's most modern and finest. 250 modernist rms., all WB., many suites and combinations. Large DR., coffee shop, cocktail bar, and the night club. Faultless service in all departments under the direction of Tony Peres. I highly recommend the Reforma if you wish the best at all times.

Hotel: Regis. 320 rms. A most comfortable, semi-commercial hotel six blocks from downtown section. Rates reasonable. Has Turkish baths, plunge, and massage department. Manuel C. Meza, Manager.

Hotel: Geneve. 450 rms. Large and spacious. Grand lobby and lounge houses all departments under one roof. The best of service at all times. Ask for Mr. Salvador Mariscal, Assistant Manager.

Hotel: Majestic. 100 rms. Right downtown, facing Cathedral and Zocalo. About three years old, very nice, lovely tile work, comfortable rms. Door auto service, etc.

Hotel: Imperial. 110 rms. One of the older, but comfortable at a lesser charge. On Reforma Blvd.

Gran Hotel: Colisio. 150 rms. Just off the main st. on Bolivar, No. 28. An excellent place for a reasonable rate and close to most places.

Shirley Courts. 60 units. Mr. James Shirley is an old timer, American, and will make you most comfortable. His place is well known and universally liked.

Los Angeles Courts. About three miles from City Center at 786 Avenida Insurgentes. Modern and well managed.

The above listed places are picked at random and offered for your reference. When in Mexico City I suggest that you ask about Licensed Guides at the place you stay. A guide will show you a great deal and save you time and money during your visit.

MEXICO

PLACES TO VISIT FROM MEXICO CITY:

According to your time allowance I suggest that you plan trips to the following towns. Your hotel manager or guide will give you the local information.

TAXCO. 100 Mi. All paved.

The town beautiful. Built on a hill in a most charming setting. You plan one day's stay and linger for three. Get a boy guide to show the selected hotel, as streets are narrow and hard to locate. Read your guide book. There are four outstanding hotels. I recommend all of them; you make your choice.

Hotel: La Borda. Newest in construction, set on a hill facing the old town. Most beautiful view. Large, modern bdrms. DR., cafe, and bar. Mexican management, Mr. Ramon Urzua.

Rancho Telva. Operated by Wells Fargo Express Company, which assures you of par excellence in management, service, and foods.

Hotel Taxqueno. A very old mansion made modern through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. John Sutherland, operators, who make you comfortable feed you well, show every consideration.

Hotel: Los Arcos (The Arches). Operated by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Harrison, who offer real Virginia hospitality and cooking. Another old, old mansion remodelled for your modern comfort.

The town of Taxco is known for its silversmithing and tin sheet-metal work.

ACAPULCO. 175 Mi. from Taxco.

Old China Road of Romance to the Pacific Ocean, over which pack trains carried much foreign trade goods to Mexico City in the old days. Highway Department plans to have dust oil coat laid within the 1940 year. Beautiful bay in tropical setting.

El Mirador Hotel. 36 units. All modern, mostly individual cottages perched 150 feet above the rocky shore line. Breezes all the time. Very good food, served in open-air DR., roofed. Carlos Barnard, the Don of the place, looks after your every comfort.

Hotel: Las Flamigos. 25 units. Mrs. Spencer Anderson manages this very excellent American plan cottage hotel. Also on the bluffs overlooking the Pacific, close to beach. Will re-open 1940 season, repaired and remodelled in every department. Class AA in all respects.

Good luck to you all. Cordially, TOM R. WILSON.

If the present (Dec. 1939) rate of exchange continues you will experience the pleasure of receiving about six Mexican pesos in exchange for each American dollar.

ACAPULCO.

Hotel: La Marina. New, modernistic, both in architecture and furnishings. Beautiful location. 45 rms. For 2, A. 32 Pesos up. E. 16 Pesos up. Small dogs P.

CUERNAVACA.

Hotel: Bella Vista. On Central Plaza. Just an average hotel, said to be the best downtown one for tourists. This is a resort town and the more famous ones are out of the business district.

Hotel: Borda. Formerly the summer home and palace of Carlotta and Maximilian. Over 300 yrs. old. Beautiful gardens. Exceptionally clean.

ENSENADA, BAJA CALIF. 31 Mi. S. of San Diego.

A sleepy, typical Mexican town. Being what is called a "free port," prices on many articles are low.

Hotel: Playa Ensenada. If one should deliberately try to build the most beautiful hotel his imagination could conceive, he might end up with something like this one. Over 150 antique pieces were imported from Spain, Cuba and the interior of Mexico, which include gates, grilles, railings, doors. Anyone as near as San Diego should take the beautiful drive down here. A. for 2, $18.00 to $26.00. E. $9.00 to $17.00. Special mid-week rates in effect.

FORTIN, STATE OF V. C.

Hotel: Ruiz Galindo. Secluded setting. Spotlessly clean. New and modern. Tropical gardens. Swimming pool. 60 guests. All rms. WB. A. 2WB 28 Pesos up. FPark. Pets P.

Note: Since skiing and winter sports have become the rage, many of the hotels, inns, and camps of New England, which ordinarily are closed during the winter, now remain open. However, some of the managers get cold feet with the first snow storm, suddenly decide to close their hostelries and hop to Florida. Consequently, before gayly starting off, it might be a good idea to check up, which you can easily do by consulting the nearest tourist bureau or writing the Executive Secretary, White Mountains Region, Warren, N. Kentucky Hickory-Smoked Hams

MY grandfather came to Kentucky from Virginia in 1824. It was not long before his hams gained a reputation for their superior flavor, and today I adhere to his original recipe. My hams are prepared in December, January, and February, but are shipped throughout the year, as long as the supply lasts.

Hickory smoking requires about forty days. The long process of curing results in a shrinkage of about 24% to 33% from its original weight. This shrinkage in weight, plus the long, laborious process of curing, accounts for the necessity of pricing these hams a little above the cost of the usual meat market type.

Mold on this type of ham is like mold on some cheeses, an evidence of correct curing and aging, with this difference—it is easily washed off the ham.

Occasionally in carving one of these hams, you may notice small white specks scattered throughout the lean meat. These specks are nothing more than salt and indicate not only that the salt has thoroughly penetrated through the hams in seasoning, but it also implies that it is not too new.

While these white specks are not requisite in this type of ham, they are regarded by connoisseurs as a welcome sign.

When baked, these hams are nearly always served cold and sliced thin. In the South, we usually place a ham at one end of the table and a turkey or other hot meat at the other end. For buffet lunches or suppers, the ham may be accompanied with scalloped oysters, etc.

The best way to keep a baked ham fresh and moist, after the first day's serving, is to wrap it in a damp (not wet) napkin and place it in a crock and during hot weather, place in a refrigerator.

You need not cook the ham as soon as received. It will keep for a long period, if hung in a cool place (not refrigerator) and kept free from flies and other insects.

My Kentucky Hickory-Smoked Hams are widely known for their enticing flavor and are delicious whether fried, broiled, or baked.

My supply of hams is limited. Average weight, 15 pounds, which is what most people prefer. The price is 47 cents per pound uncooked.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR CO-OPERATION in making this as nearly an accurate and reliable guide as possible.

Places go out of business, new places are started, managements or policies change. Therefore, it is necessary to issue new editions yearly.

Before using the postcard enclosed in this book to recommend a new place, first look and see if it is not already listed in the current edition.

IT IS IMPORTANT TO GIVE INFORMATION CORRECTLY, as it will save an enormous amount of detail work in my office. Be sure you give the complete name of a place and that it is spelled correctly, with full street address (or auto route number) and Post Office name of village or town and if possible how far it is located in a given direction from a large city.

Many times I receive recommendations for places to be included in this book, but the information is inadequate or arrives too late to go in the next printing. REMEMBER, IT TAKES QUITE A LITTLE TIME FOR ME TO PROPERLY CHECK A PLACE.

Modern Guest Houses, located in the country or at the edge of a town, or hotels and up-to-date Auto Courts away from noises, are the types of places most desired by discriminating motorists.

Constructive criticisms and suggestions are welcome; when writing me (on one side of paper, please) it is necessary that you be specific, as merely stating that a place listed should be replaced by another does not help much unless you give details. Your letters will be held in confidence.

Cordially,

DUNCAN HINES
